Welcome Ziaur to the City's IT Department

Ziaur Chowdhury is a Software Analyst II with the Information Technology Department, where he leads backend modernization and data engineering projects to support more efficient, data-driven decision-making across city operations. He specializes in building Power BI dashboards integrated with systems like Tyler Technologies and PostgreSQL, helping departments streamline performance tracking and public reporting.

Ziaur holds a Master of Science in Computer Science with a Data Science specialization from the University of Southern California. His background includes roles in public infrastructure analytics, cloud-based ETL pipelines, and machine learning projects aimed at health equity and operational optimization. Prior to joining the City of Merced, he contributed to data science initiatives at Ernst & Young and collaborated on statewide transportation analytics for Caltrans.

Ziaur is passionate about using data to drive public impact and enjoys translating complex insights into clear, actionable tools for community stakeholders. Please help us welcome Ziaur!

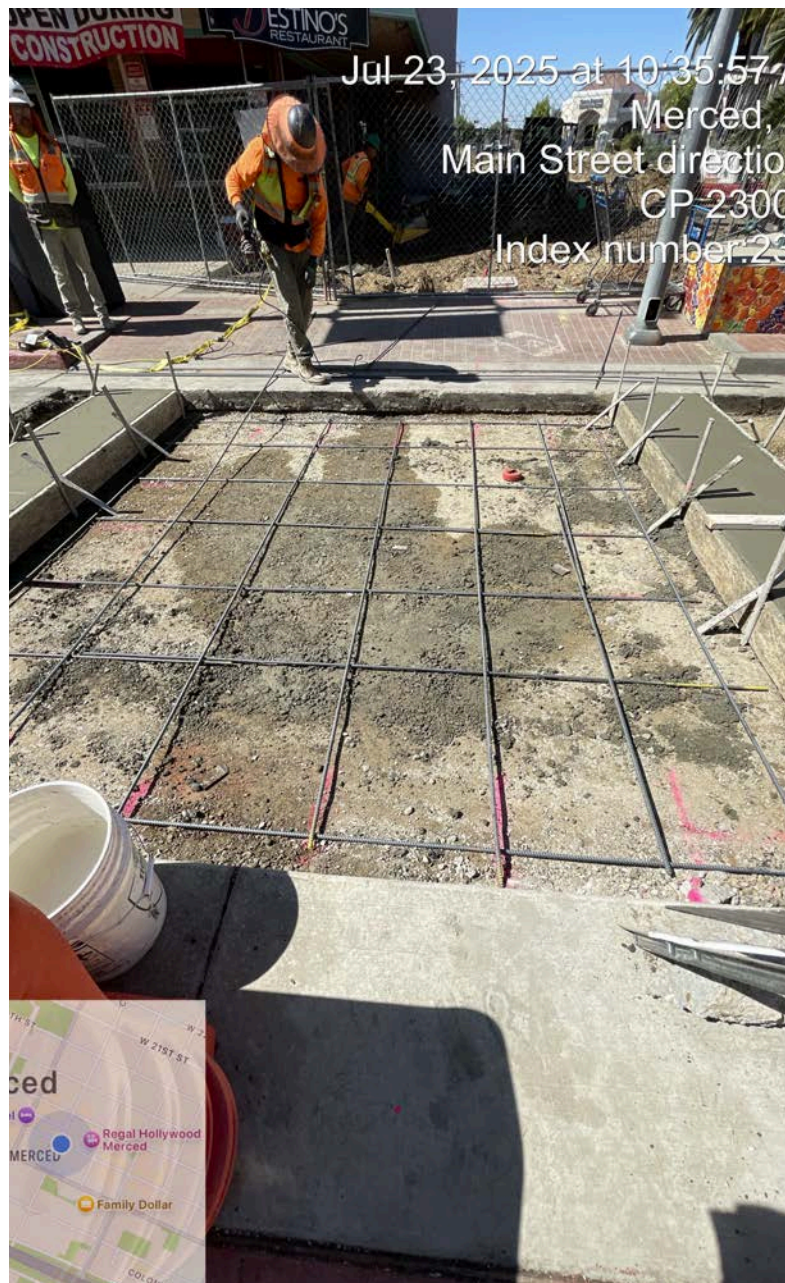

Farwell to Planning Commissioner Jose Delgadillo

Recently the Planning Department gathered to bid farewell to planning commissioner Jose Delgadillo, who served 7 years on the commission. We are appreciative of his dedication, volunteer service, and the time he dedicated to our community.

Main Street Updates

The finishing touches are being added to Main Street as crews finish up the three crosswalks at Canal and Main Street.

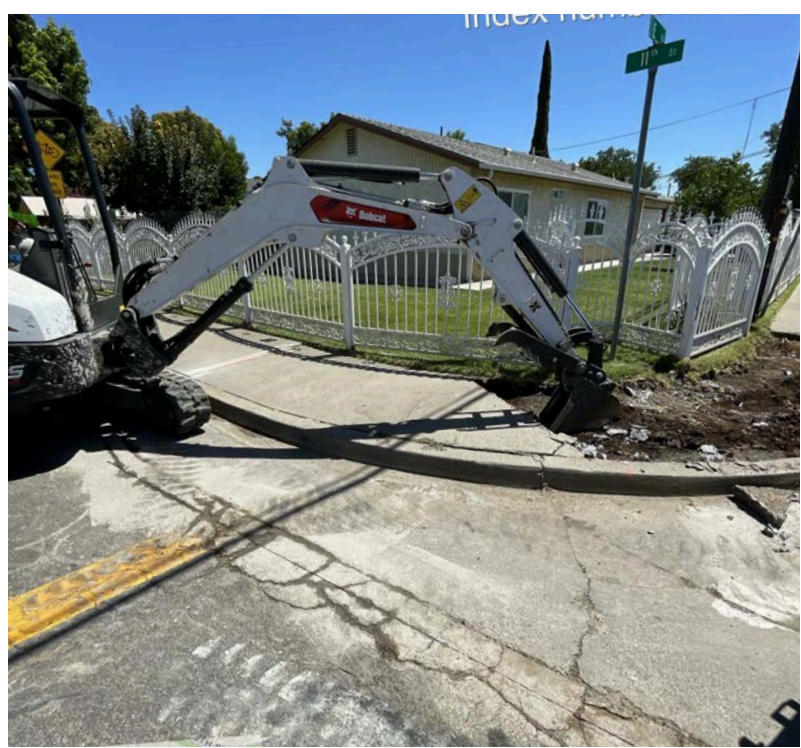

Yosemite Avenue Progress

Crews are hard at work and are beginning to grind the north side Yosemite Avenue, from north Gardner Avenue to White Dove Avenue.

Stowell School Sidewalk Project

Construction began this week on the Stowell School sidewalk project, with crews demolishing the intersection of E and 11th Street to prepare for the new sidewalks and ADA ramps.
